TESTIMONIALS

"Dr Ann Schafer is one of only a few Wholistic practitioners in this area of psychological (Mind-Body-Emotions-Spiritual fitness) that I feel confident as a referral source. She seeks the most relevant healing resources and research available that will make a difference in producing client connections to Peace, Joy and Uplifting Energy restoration." Dr Dale Powers DC; - Heart of Gold Chiropractic; owner of Auburn School of Self-Mastery.

Dr. Ann Schafer was a colleague of mine at Sacramento City College, for over 25 years. She was well known and well respected on campus for her dedication to assisting students and constantly striving to enhance the services of the Learning Disability center. She was and still is, well versed in the most innovative and effective methods of research and treatment. She was a proponent of Wholistic treatment in Psychology, long before it became popular. I gladly and respectfully refer to her for all encompassing treatment modalities. Angela Curiale, Ph. D., Psychologist.

Dr. Ann Schafer pursues the craft of therapy with a zeal for competency and a dedication to the growth of her clients I've observed in her over many years of professional interaction and consultation. She represents a 360 degree commitment to her role as therapist that includes the joy of sharing ideas as well as skills in writing and research that springs from a continual search for personal and spiritual tools that will enrich the lives of her clients and colleagues. - Glenda Lippmann, Ph.D., Clinical Psychologist; Co-owner of New Hope for the Brain; Co-author of "Whispers From The Brain."
